INVESTMENT COMMENT

The investment strategy of AMS GLOBAL LEADERS - focusing on high quality companies with good visibility on future dividends - proved well suited to the first quarter environment. During the quarter, high-multiple US growth stocks experienced significant corrections ; european companies with strong balance sheets and predictable dividend streams outperformed.

The strongest contribution to performance came from the energy sector - TOTAL ENERGIES + 39,2% - SHELL + 28,1% - ENGIE + 22%. These three stocks were the main drivers of performance over the quarter. TOTAL ENERGIES benefits from a favorable combination : high oil prices, a dividend yield above 5% and a LNG development strategy that ensures long-term outlets in Europe. DEUTSCHE TELEKOM benefited from the growing strength of T-Mobile in the United States, which continues to generate abundant cash-flows ; JOHNSON & JOHNSON , for its part, reported quarterly results confirming the strength of the Med Tech segment.

The management team also increased the exposure to the european defense sector through RENK GROUP AG ans LEONARDO Spa.
